

It all started when two ordinary people in Todmorden (size of Penrith) planted a patch of rhubarb next to a bus stop. Now the town has 500 community food growing areas.

A simple act of planting rhubarb has started a 'world-wide' revolution in growing fruit & vegetables that passers-by can pick and eat for dinner!

'The Incredible Edibles'

Pam will show photos and talk about how ordinary people are making a difference to the way they eat and live as a community in Todmorden, West Yorkshire

Monday 30th April
7.00- 9.00

Wordsworth St. Methodist Church Hall Penrith

Admission Free

(but if you can give something towards covering the evenings expenses that would be good)

With food and petrol prices on the increase...

Together... Can we grow more in the Garden of Eden?

- ✓ Can we grow more food in our own garden or backyard?
- ✓ Would you like to grow food with other people?
- ✓ Find out how others are doing it
- ✓ We can display information on any community planting going on in Eden
- ✓ Too many seeds/plants -bring them along to give away to a new home

Please come - it should be a great evening!
